

Mutual Ventures are a management consultancy which specialise in public service reform. We are passionate about better, more sustainable public services. We work across all areas including children's services, health and social care, culture services and more.

We've worked with over 150 local authorities, government departments, NHS organisations and mutuals and co-operatives since 2011. This is just some of the CCIN members we've supported.

Context

Local Authorities looking to lead their communities out of the COVID-19 crisis face an unprecedented set of challenges. Leaders already faced competing pressures of increasing demand, rising complexity and decreasing resources, while at the same time responding to wider system challenges.

Recovery is not about returning to 'business as usual.' Local Authorities need to think through how they can navigate the uncertainties, sustain those positive changes and work alongside their partners and communities to tackle the challenges laid bare by COVID-19.

Our offer

Mutual Ventures are here to support Local Authorities to adopt a co-operative approach that empowers and strengthens communities, building on the lessons from the crisis to harness collective action between local people, businesses and public services in a new way.

Our offer focuses on people and place. How we can build communities that engage and empower people.

A framework for local authorities and communities recovering together
